Early November offers cool mountain weather with temperatures typically ranging between 10°C and 16°C (50°F–60°F), so keep a warm jacket or layers handy for the afternoon walk.

Buying Tickets at Alishan Train Station

1. Next-Morning Zhushan Sunrise Line

- Where to buy: Go to the 2nd floor ticket counter at Alishan Train Station.
- Opening Hours: 08:30 AM – 4:30 PM.
- Timing: Since you arrive around 11:00 AM, you will have plenty of time to drop your bags at your hotel and go to the 2nd-floor counter before it closes at 4:30 PM.
- Note: Advance tickets for the next morning's sunrise train are sold exclusively during this 1:00 PM – 4:30 PM window (or during standard ticket office hours starting at 8:30 AM). On early November weekdays, tickets generally do not sell out as fast as on weekends, but buying them as soon as you arrive is recommended.

2. Same-Day Shenmu (Sacred Tree) Line

- Where to buy: 2nd floor ticket counter at Alishan Train Station.
- Timing: You can purchase same-day tickets for the local branch lines (Shenmu Line and Zhaoping Line) right when you want to ride or when you arrive at the station.
- Frequency: Trains on the Shenmu Line run frequently throughout the afternoon (typically every 30 minutes until around 4:10 PM). Because these are local forest shuttle trains with high frequency, tickets do not sell out in advance.

- Payment: Cash (NTD) is recommended for station counter purchases, though credit cards are accepted at main counters.
